

FREEZING PEOPLE LOOT COAL YARDS IN OPEN DAY

Indianapolis Dealers Guard
Fuel With Rifles.

FEAR RIOTS IN CHICAGO

Six Thousand Poor Families, Driven to Desperation by Blizzard's Lash, Threaten Violence.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 9.—Suffering intensely from the chilling blasts of the blizzard which swept Indianapolis yesterday, scores of people resorted to stealing coal in broad daylight in order to keep their families from freezing. Along the railroad yards the desperate people swarmed with sacks and wheelbarrows, and railroad companies lost heavily. Many times during the day the police department was appealed to by the railroad employees.

Despite the efforts of the department many tons of coal were carried away. The Big Four appealed to the police for protection to the company's yards. It was stated that coal was being wheeled away in wheelbarrows and that the people refused to heed the warnings of the company's employees.

James Bowman, of the firm of Udell & Co., coal dealers, West Twenty-fifth and Clifton Streets, has had to stand guard at his coal yard with a rifle, and several times during the last few days shots have been exchanged with the thieves.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—With the mercury hovering around 10 degrees above zero, while coal is held at prohibitive prices, 8,000 families in Chicago are living in houses so cold that speech makes the breath visible.

In every quarter of the city there is suffering, and from every police station come reports of needy people to whom coal and supplies have been sent, as provided for in cases of temporary emergency, but who will need help probably throughout the winter. The police are anticipating coal riots, and every precaution is being taken to meet the condition when it arises.

GERMANS BANQUET ON HORSE MEAT IN BERLIN

Curious Dinner Given by the S.
P. C. A.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—Six hundred persons dined here on horse meat in various forms last night.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals issued the invitations to the dinner, which was given for the purpose of demonstrating the nourishing and palatable qualities of horse meat, thereby causing increased consumption of the meat and a ready market for old horses. This would prevent owners from working the poor animals to death, as well-fed specimens would bring good prices.

The bill of fare last night consisted of horse soup, pickled horse tongue, fillet of horse and roast horse. All of the dishes were nicely prepared and were greatly relished.

The presiding officer of the society, Privy Councillor Von Seefeld, sold 30,000 horses had been eaten in Berlin last year and that he hoped for a large increase in the future. Many prominent members of the Reichstag and of the city council were present at the banquet.

YALE STUDENTS TO RECORD INDIAN SPEECH

With Special Car and Talking Machines, Will Tour West and South.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 9.—The department of experimental psychology at Yale soon will begin the study of the dialects of the United States, the funds for the experiment having been granted by the Carnegie Institute at Washington, as announced some time ago. To carry out this experiment, which is to be known as the Yale Phonetic Survey, a special railroad car will be chartered and sent out to various places in the western part of the United States in charge of Yale men to collect grammatical records of the rapidly disappearing Indian dialects. Southern and Western modes of speech will also be studied and records taken, but the main object of the trip will be to collect Indian speech. The car will start some time in the spring and will carry on its work during the coming summer.

A movement among philologists to study the Indian dialects of the United States before they become so corrupted that study will be impracticable has been on foot for several years, a Philadelphia society having taken up the idea at the suggestion of Prof. Scripture of Yale. Until recently, however, no definite plan to carry out this work had been suggested.

TANGLEWOOD ATHLETIC CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED

Meeting Will Be Held Sunday Night
When Officers Are to Be Chosen.

A meeting will be held at 1747 F Street northwest, Sunday night at which an association to be known as the "Tanglewood Athletic Club," will be organized, and afterward incorporated in the District of Columbia. A large number of this city's best athletes are identified with the Tanglewoods.

At the coming meeting a president, secretary, treasurer and manager of athletics will be elected, and a constitution and a set of by-laws drawn up. Those who are behind the movement feel confident that it will be only a question of a short time before this association becomes one of the recognized athletic clubs of the city.

SAXON PRINCESS VICTIM OF PLOT

Archduke Blamed for His Sister's Course

M. GIRON A WILLING TOOL

Crown Prince Anxious for Wife's Return, But Not as Member of Royal Family.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The "Herald" European edition publishes the following from its correspondent:

Dresden—Thursday.—I have just had interviews with a number of the highest officials of the Saxon court, including a close relative and confidant of the crown prince, in order to obtain a faithful picture of the present attitude of the Saxon court toward Princess Louise, and likewise its future plans in the event of a total change in the condition of the King.

These interviews, without exception, contradict some allegations attributed to Princess Louise, M. Giron, and the Archduke Leopold Ferdinand, although coinciding in the main with the statements of Princess Louise to the "Herald" correspondent at Geneva.

The following is a truthful account of the Saxon court's official version of the affair:

Archduke Leopold Ferdinand is almost solely blamed for the action of his sister. While M. Giron was a willing tool, who with cunning words and intrigues helped to persuade the crown prince to desert her husband and children, the crown prince is willing to bring about a reconciliation to the extent that Princess Louise will be permitted to return to Saxony and occupy, under care of the crown, some sheltered retreat where she may occasionally meet her children.

But such a step is impossible as long as the King and immediate members of the royal family all express the conviction that the princess shares the mental weaknesses which characterize other members of the house of Tuscany.

After the flight of the crown prince her private rooms were searched, and many volumes of forbidden novels and books were found which had been brought her by M. Giron.

Cruelty and Neglect Denied.

As one of my informants stated, "Princess Louise was not forced to take the step by alleged cruelty, by lack of attention on the part of the Crown Prince, or because of clerical influences."

"At times when I was seated at the royal table I noticed that M. Giron, who was given the utmost freedom in the palace, was especially devoted to the princess. Nevertheless, no one took special notice of it or regarded it as any dangerous intimacy. The princess was a favorite of the late King, but there was no special affection between King George and her."

"That she was bored by the routine of court life and by the disciplinary character of the crown prince, and regarded herself as hampered, I have no doubt. But she was devoted to all kinds of outdoor sports, and every wish of hers for recreation was granted."

"It is untrue that there were quarrels between herself and the crown prince."

"Herr von Tuempling, grand marshal of the court, who returned recently from Geneva on a fruitless mission, was sent there by the crown prince for the purpose of inducing the princess to return to Saxony and consent to live a retired life in some part of Saxony where she might be able to see her children."

"But Herr von Tuempling, who was a personal emissary of the crown prince, was recalled by the King, who sternly opposes every overture of this kind."

Prince Bears Loss Stolidly.

A member of the crown prince's household, gives me this version: "The crown prince bears the whole matter stolidly, like a soldier. It is absurd to state that he spends the day lamenting the loss of the princess. His children are being kept in ignorance of the flight of their mother, but it is only natural that the youngest should be crying to see her, because she was deeply attached to them. The princess had constant access to her children and no effort was made to constrain her maternal affection."

"The crown prince believes the princess will yet return and plead forgiveness, but she will never return as a member of the royal family. She is regarded here as a victim of a sinister plot."

FARMERS NOT HUCKSTERS.

A decision was reached by the District Commissioners yesterday that the license tax of $12 for hucksters doing business in the District under the appropriation law passed by Congress at its last session, does not apply to those farmers who peddle products in the District which are raised on their own farms in the outlying portions of the District and in Maryland and Virginia.

BISHOP OF WINCHESTER NOW ENGLAND'S PRIMATE

Succeeds Dr. Temple as Archbishop of Canterbury.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Right Rev. Dr. Randall Thomas Davidson, bishop of Winchester since 1895, has been appointed Archbishop of Canterbury in succession to the Most Rev. Dr. Frederick Temple, who died December 23.

The Right Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, D. D., son of Henry Davidson, Minsterhouse, Edinburgh, and Henrietta, daughter of John Swinton, Kimmernghame, was born in 1848 and educated at Harrow and at Trinity College, Oxford, where he graduated B. A. in 1871 and M. A. in 1875.

Owing to a serious gunshot accident in 1886 he was for several years incapacitated from active work, and during his Oxford career he spent much time out of England. Ordained in 1874 to the curacy of Dartford, in Kent, he was appointed in 1877 chaplain and private secretary to Dr. Tait, Archbishop of Canterbury. This position he held until the archbishop's death in December, 1882, on him devolved, in large measure, the arrangements connected with the great Lambeth conference of 100 bishops in 1883. During those years he contributed articles on various historical and ecclesiastical subjects to the "Contemporary Review," "Macmillan's Magazine" and other periodicals. Bishop Lightfoot of Durham appointed him examining chaplain in 1880, and in 1882 he became subaltern and honorary chaplain to the Queen and one of six preachers of Canterbury Cathedral.

Archbishop Benson, on succeeding to the primacy, retained Mr. Davidson's services as resident chaplain and private secretary, and after holding that office for six months he was, in June, 1883, appointed by the Queen to the deanery of Windsor, and became also resident chaplain in ordinary to the Queen and registrar of the Order of the Garter. In the same year he received from the University of St. Andrews the honorary degree of D. D. In 1884 he became a trustee of the British Museum, in the management of which he takes an active part. In 1887 he was elected by the masters of Eton College as their representative on the governing body of the school. This post he held until 1896. In 1888 Dr. Davidson acted as honorable secretary to the third Lambeth conference, attended by 145 bishops from all parts of the world, and a few months after the conclusion of its sessions he published, through the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, a volume containing a history of these conferences from their origin and other documents connected with them. In 1891 he published, in conjunction with Canon Benson, the biography of his father-in-law, Archbishop Tait, whose daughter, Miss Edith Tait, he had married in 1878.

In April, 1891 Dr. Davidson was consecrated Bishop of Rochester, and in the same year he became, in succession to Bishop Philpott, clerk of the closet to the Queen. This office he still holds. On the death of Bishop Thorold, in July, 1895, Bishop Davidson was nominated to the See of Winchester. At the request of Archbishop Benson (who, however, died before the conference assembled) he undertook the duties of chief Episcopal secretary to the fourth Lambeth conference of bishops, which met in July, 1897.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But It Has Proven of Interest and Value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump it can only result from the food we eat and digest, and that food should be all-nutritious or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak and cereals; in other words, the kinds of food that make flesh are the foods which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough and generally too much, the stomach, from abuse and overwork, does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason so many people remain thin and underweight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the flesh-forming beefsteak and eggs and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs. Such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking, after each meal, one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these tablets contain the natural peptones and diastase which every weak stomach lacks, and by supplying this want the stomach is soon enabled to regain its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh-forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men, women, and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit as they contain no strong irritating drugs, no cathartic nor any harmful ingredient.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most successful and most widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada as well as in Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people, strong, plump and well.
